Virtual Security Showcase Features Latest Technology Insights from Leading Security Providers

Free Online Series Runs May 12-14

Nyack, NY (April 30, 2020) – Security industry professionals seeking the annual trend and product news updates they've always learned at trade shows now have a new option. From May 12-14, fifteen leaders in the security industry will present their latest insights and solutions at a new online event. Called Virtual Security Showcase, the event is being presented free of charge. Attendees will benefit from the open flow of information on the latest solutions for professional security and business intelligence applications.

Participating companies represent a range of disciplines, including access control, surveillance, analytics, edge devices, software solutions, key management, power management, and more.

Each presentation in the Virtual Security Showcase will be a 30-minute online session followed by a live Q&A session. Attendees can register for one, or all, the sessions for FREE.

For a complete list of presenters, topics and session schedules, or to register, please visit: www.VirtualSecurityShowcase.com
